Rationale

The teaching of Personal, Health and Social skills has always been a key component of the school curriculum, providing opportunities for pupils to develop vital life skills and independence. As of Spring 2021 all maintained primary schools must also ensure that their curriculum covers key elements of Relationships education.

This policy will outline how we intend to cover the statutory elements in a manner that is suitable for the learning needs of our school community.

This policy should be read in conjunction with:

- Springwood Primary School Curriculum Policy
- Springwood Primary School PSHE Policy
- DFE Guidance – Relationships and Sex Education and Health Guidance 2019.

Statutory Requirements

As a maintained primary school we must provide relationships education to all pupils as per section 34 of the Children and Social work act 2017.

However, we are not required to provide sex education but we do need to teach the elements of sex education contained in the science curriculum, as appropriate.

In teaching RSE, we must have regard to guidance issued by the secretary of state as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

As of February 2019, the Secretary of State for Education has made the following statement:

“This is why we have made Relationships Education compulsory in all primary schools in England and Relationships and Sex Education compulsory in all secondary schools, as well as making Health Education compulsory in all state-funded schools.”

Policy Development

It is a requirement that all stakeholders are consulted during the development of this policy as appropriate.

A focused coffee morning was held in spring 2019 to discuss the proposed changes to the curriculum. This event was open to all families and was attended by 2 of our parents.

This policy, in its draft form, will be shared with all families and feedback welcomed (Autumn B 2020).

This policy, in its draft form, will be shared with all teachers and feedback welcomed (Autumn B 2020).

This policy, in its draft form, will be shared with the Governing Board and feedback welcomed. (Autumn B 2020).

Curriculum Overview

As with all elements of our curriculum, the content that we teach is clearly differentiated and made accessible to our pupils through a wide range of means. We aim to teach all the statutory elements required, however, this will be done in a way that is sensitive to the learning needs of our pupils.

The new statutory elements of the RHE curriculum have been clearly integrated into our current Personal, Social and Health Education Curriculum to ensure that pupils have a broad and balanced learning experience. Our new curriculum ensures that pupils will learn about healthy and safe relationships, keeping themselves healthy and safe along with ensuring that independence and life skills personalised to each child still form the basis of our curriculum provision.

Our curriculum is designed to ensure that by the end of KS2 all pupils will have experience of learning about the following areas:

Relationships Education

- Learning about different people in their lives and how the relationships with these people differ depending on who they are/what their role is;
- The complexities and rules within different relationships. How to be respectful within relationships and how to keep themselves safe;
- How to develop friendships and the importance of these;
- Setting boundaries and maintaining boundaries within different types of relationships and friendships;
- The scope of different relationships, e.g personal, friendship, online, families and how to keep safe within each of these;
- Safety within relationships (PECS So Safe).

Health Education

- How to keep ourselves physically healthy through exercise, nutrition, health care;
- Learning about the impact of using unhealthy substances such as drugs, alcohol and tobacco;
- Developing understanding of feelings and emotions and learning how to express these appropriately, linking this with the importance of looking after our mental health and wellbeing;
- Understand how our bodies develop and change as we grow older;
- Experience learning some basic first aid.

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after children or young carers).

PECS So Safe

One of the teaching programmes that we will be utilising as a school to support with safe relationships education is 'PECS So Safe'. This is a programme of study that has been developed specifically for use with children with Special Educational Needs. It uses a set sequence of learning which is designed to build upon each lesson, across a period of time, to develop understanding about safe relationships, safe touch, levels of relationship and intimacy with different people and how to keep safe. It also develops understanding of feelings and emotions.

Further detailed information regarding the rolling programme of study and schemes of work can be found in Appendix 1.

The detailed breakdown of content regarding PECS So Safe for each year group can be found in Appendix 2.

Roles and Responsibilities

Governing Board

It is the responsibility of the Governing Board to approve the school policy and approach to teaching RHE and to hold Head Teacher/ Senior Leadership Team accountable for its implementation.

Senior Leadership Team

It is the responsibility of the Senior Leadership Team to ensure:

- High quality, RHE teaching is happening across all curriculum pathways in a manner that is appropriate to the needs of the class;
- High quality resources are available to support curriculum delivery;
- All class teachers feel supported in teaching elements of the curriculum that they may find uncomfortable;
- Appropriate teaching methods, resources and appropriate terminology is being used throughout lessons.

Teachers

It is the responsibility of all teachers to ensure:

- They are following the correct scheme of work and pathway suited to the needs of their class group;
- They are covering all statutory aspects of the curriculum as set out by the DFE;
- They create a safe and secure learning environment for the teaching of RHE;
- They are using anatomically correct terminology.

What kind of language will be considered acceptable and appropriate for use in RHE lessons?

All staff will:

- Openly teach pupils what 'slang' words mean (where appropriate) and that some are offensive;
- Use inclusive language (such as partner instead of boyfriend/girlfriend);
- Use correct terminology as this is deemed good practice;
- Avoid the use of any slang.

It is good practice to use medically correct terms for parts of the body, for example, vagina or penis. Ofsted provides full support for this approach (2013) and have raised concerns that some schools are currently failing to teach this vocabulary because this leaves children unable to describe abusive behaviours.

The use of respectful language which challenges sexism, homophobia and other forms of prejudice can be established in RSE and will have benefits for the whole school community – both in and out of lessons.

Parents/Families

It is the responsibility of Parents and Families to ensure:

- They are supportive of the school in its endeavour to teach the statutory elements of the RHE curriculum;
- They have open dialogue with the class teacher to ask any questions, discuss any misconceptions regarding the content of the RHE curriculum;
- They support pupils at home with any questions they may have following teaching of the RHE curriculum.

Parents do not have the right to withdraw pupils from the statutory elements of relationships education.
